Pharmacy plays a vital role in healthcare, focusing on the safe and effective use of medications. Pharmacists are professionals who are knowledgeable about different medicines and their effects on the human body. They work in pharmacies, hospitals, and clinics, where they collaborate with healthcare providers to ensure patients receive the right medications and proper dosage. Pharmacists are responsible for dispensing medications, providing medication counseling, and monitoring for any potential drug interactions or side effects. They also play a crucial role in educating patients about their medications, including how to take them correctly and manage any associated health conditions. Pharmacists work diligently to promote patient safety, accuracy, and optimal health outcomes. Their expertise helps patients understand their medications better and empowers them to make informed decisions about their healthcare.

Adjective and Adverb
An adjective is a word that modifies a noun or pronoun. In general, the purpose of an adjective is to describe a noun or pronoun by stating its characteristics or by providing more information about it.

An adverb is a word that modifies a verb, an adjective, a clause, or even another adverb. In general, adverbs provide more information that answer questions such as When?, Where?, How?, and Why?
We use adjective to say more about a noun or a pronoun (things and people).

They usually go in front of the word they describe.

We visited an old house.

There are many nouns in English that are used as a adjective.

When we use more than one adjective, we usually put them in a certain order. We say: a strange old wooden chair (not a wooden old strange chair)

We usually begin with adjective which give an opinion or general impression: a dangerous old car, a valuable silver spoon.
Adjective which give factual information usually follow the opinion/impression adjective. They go in this order:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>size</th>
<th>age</th>
<th>shape</th>
<th>color</th>
<th>origin</th>
<th>material</th>
<th>purpose</th>

GRAMMAR ESSENTIALS: USING INDIRECT AND TAG QUESTIONS WITH CONFIDENCE

By Asst. Lecturer Karam Hashim
Indirect Questions

▪ When do we use indirect questions?
  For formal occasions.
  For talking to your teacher.
  To talk with strangers.

▪ Why do people use indirect questions?
  To be polite
  Diplomacy
  To be formal

▪ How do we form an indirect question?
  A sentence with two clauses, the second clause contains a question.
Examples

- Do you know ... ?
  Could you tell me ... ?
  Can I ask you ... ?
  Would you mind telling me ... ?

- I wonder ...
  I was wondering ...
  I'd like to know ...
  Please tell me ...
Practice

- Direct questions:
  - Where do you live?
  - How old are you?
  - How much is this?
  - When is the next bus?
  - Where were you born?
  - What are your hobbies?
  - Who are you?

- Indirect questions:
  - ... where you live (?)
  - ... where the school is (?)
  - ... how old you are (?)
  - ... how much this is (?)
  - ... when the next bus is (?)
  - ... where you were born (?)
  - ... who you are (?)
Tag questions

- Why do we use tag questions?

To ask for confirmation.

Softening a statement: Question tags can be used to soften a statement or to make it less forceful or aggressive. For example, "You don't mind if I join you, do you?" is a softer way of asking to join someone than saying "I'm going to join you whether you like it or not."

Building rapport: Question tags can be used to build rapport or to establish a connection with the listener. For example, "You like coffee, don't you?" can be used to initiate a conversation about coffee and potentially build a connection around a shared interest.

<tr>
<td>You don’t know her,</td>
<td>do you?</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
But you don’t really love her.
This will work.
Well, I couldn’t help it.
But you’ll tell me if she calls.
We’d never have known.
The weather’s bad.
You won’t be late.
Nobody knows.

, Do you ?
, Won’t it ?
, could I ?
, won’t you ?
, would we ?
, isn’t it ?
, will you ?

Exercise

▪ Rewrite the following direct questions as indirect questions and then add an appropriate tag question at the end:

▪ a) "Are you going to the party?"
▪ b) "Did you finish your homework?"
▪ c) "Can you help me with this problem?"
▪ d) "Do you know where the nearest hospital is?"
▪ e) "Have you seen the new Star Wars movie?"
"Jessica was a pharmacy technician who was helping a customer, Jane, pick up a prescription for her son. Jane asked, "Can I pick up the medication for my son or does he have to come in?" Jessica replied, "I'm not sure, let me check with the pharmacist." After speaking with the pharmacist, Jessica returned and said, "I was wondering if you could provide me with your son's name and date of birth, and I'll check if you can pick it up for him. Is that okay?" Jane provided the information and Jessica checked the system. "It looks like you can pick it up for him, but you'll need to sign for it. Would you like me to go over the instructions with you?" Jane nodded and said, "Yes, please. Do you think there are any side effects or interactions with other medications he's taking?" Jessica checked the prescription and said, "There's a possibility of drowsiness or dizziness, and it may interact with a blood pressure medication he's taking. Do you want me to call the pharmacist to confirm?" Jane said, "Yes, please. And one more thing, do you think there's a generic version of this medication available?" Jessica checked the system again and said, "Yes, there is. Do you want me to switch it for you?" Jane nodded and said, "Thank you for your help, you've been great. Can I speak with the pharmacist too?" Jessica replied, "Of course, let me see if he's available, and I'll call you over. Is that okay?" Jane said, "Yes, thank you."

Nutritionists classify food by groups. They say that the human body requires a balanced mixture of food from all the main food groups: carbohydrates, protein, fats, vitamins, fibre and minerals. The secret of good health is to eat a balanced diet, with the right amount of food, and to take plenty of physical exercise. When there is an imbalance – for example if you eat too little or too much, or when one of the food groups is missing from your diet - this can cause vitamin deficiency, illness, and even death. If there is no treatment and the diet does not change, death is a possibility. One example of this is the problem of obesity – this is when a person is dangerously overweight. Obesity is most common in developed countries. The imbalance comes from eating a diet which is high in fat, sugar and salt, and in not eating enough fruit, vegetables and fibre, and not burning the extra calories through physical exercise. In the case of eating disorders such as anorexia nervosa and bulimia, the imbalance leads to weight loss, when a person eats less than they need. Sufferers are mostly teenage girls – they either starve themselves in order to lose weight, or eat a lot of food at once (binge-eating) and vomit up all the food later. They often end up in hospital, and after emergency life-saving treatment they receive psychiatric help and counselling.

As a healthcare provider, it is important that you can lift patients of varying weights in order to properly care for them. You may also need to assist patients with basic tasks, such as getting dressed or moving from the bed to a chair. Sometimes, you might encounter patients who are uncooperative or in pain, so you will need to use your best judgement to determine the appropriate course of action. In those situations, you could gently suggest alternate methods to ease their discomfort, or you may have to administer medication to alleviate their pain. In any case, you must always follow proper protocols and procedures to ensure the safety and well-being of both you and your patients.
- can - expressing ability or capacity to lift patients of varying weights.
- may - expressing permission to assist patients with basic tasks
- might - expressing possibility of encountering uncooperative or in pain patients.
- Will – expressing suggestion or recommendation to use one's own judgement to make a decision.
- could - suggesting an alternate method to ease patient discomfort.
- may – possibility that the speaker will use medication on the patient.
- must - expressing necessity to follow proper protocols and procedures for safety and well-being.
