

Sustainable Development Goals

16 - Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions

16 PEACE, JUSTICE AND STRONG INSTITUTIONS

Encouraging the establishment of peaceful communities where no one is marginalized is essential for achieving sustainable development. This involves ensuring that everyone has access to justice, building effective and accountable institutions that are inclusive at all levels, and significantly reducing illicit flows of money and weapons. Additionally, it includes enhancing the recovery and return of stolen assets and combating all forms of organized crime.

Sustainable Development Goals

16 - Peace, Justice and Strong Institutions

The Human Rights Division at Al-Noor University held a special seminar on social diversity and its impact on community peace in Nineveh, under the supervision of Assistant Lecturer Qaidar Ahmed Mahmoud, who presented a lecture titled “Constitutional Protection of Social Diversity Rights.” Dr. Amer Madi gave a lecture titled “The Issue of Social Diversity and the Foundations of Community Peace,” while Assistant Professor Dr. Nashwan Mohammed Suleiman, Dean of the College of Law at the university, presented on “Ethnic Diversity as a Civilizational Aspect.” Additionally, Lecturer Dr. Ahmed Saeed Rashid Al-Taie, Head of the Psychological Counseling and Educational Guidance Division, delivered a lecture titled “The Psychological and Physical Effects of Gender-Based Violence.”

